Preparing for changes at the UK border if there's a no deal EU Exit

Guidance for the pharmaceutical industry

January 2019

What you need to know

The United Kingdom will be leaving the European Union at 11pm UK time on 29 March 2019.

Leaving the EU with a deal remains the Government's top priority and would give businesses stability and certainty to prepare for our new relationship after EU Exit.

However, the government must plan for every possible outcome including no deal. Without a deal, businesses may need to take action before 29 March 2019.

Use this information to understand how leaving the EU may affect your business and what you can do to get ready.

Preparing for changes at the UK border if there's a no deal EU Exit

What will change

At the UK border, there will be changes to UK-EU trade, including on:

- Customs, trade tariffs and VAT
- Safety and Security for goods
- Document requirements
- Vehicle standards
- Controlled products

Actions to keep your goods moving across the border

Immediate actions

- ☐ Register for an EORI number
- ☐ Decide if you will handle new Customs and Safety & Security Declarations in-house or with a third-party
- ☐ Review if you have sufficient stockpiles of medicines – see Health Secretary guidance
- ☐ Make sure you will have the required documents for your goods (e.g. Export Health Certificates)
- ☐ Check for updates on tariffs that apply to your goods, and consider using duty relief schemes
- ☐ Make sure drivers are aware of the documents they may need at the border

Recommended actions

- ☐ Discuss preparations with customers and suppliers, including responsibilities and Incoterms
- ☐ Tell your employees about changes to passport rules
- ☐ Plan for travel via Border Inspection Posts and Designated Points of Entry for certain goods
